FIRE INSPECTION TRAINING:

In most ACA Standards Manuals there is a mandatory requirement for Monthly Fire Inspections by a "qualified fire safety officer," as well as Weekly and/or Quarterly Fire Inspections by a "trained staff member." In order to assist our conference attendees with audit compliance, CAMA is planning a Fire Inspection Training which will be taught by a Certified Instructor. Attendees successfully completing this training will gain the necessary knowledge to support their qualification to complete these inspections and will be issued a certificate suitable for use as documentation in their ACA file. Fire Inspection training is scheduled for Saturday, May 1, 2010 from 9:00 a.m. – 5:00 p.m. If you are registered for the conference the fee is $30.00 and for non-conference attendees there is a $60.00 fee. Please read on to see what some attendees of this training had to say:

- “This training helped explain some differences between standards and code that are often misunderstood. It also helped set an idea from an inspectors view on what to look for and what to change.”
- “Overall this course gave me insight to help me make my facility a better one when it comes to fire safety.”
- “Presenter related fire codes to real institution situations which made it interesting.
- “As an ACA accredited facility this is mandatory for my position. Met all of my needs and my facility needs. All questions were answered and just a good training.”

ACA CERTIFICATION EXAMS

CAMA will once again be offering attendees the opportunity to take one of the ACA Certification Exams. The exams will be held on Saturday, May 1, time to be determined. In order to take this exam, you will need to register with ACA and pay for the exam. CAMA will provide a comfortable exam room and a proctor. Don't miss this opportunity to enhance your professional credentials!

PANEL HEARINGS

The Commission on Accreditation for Corrections will hold panel hearings on Friday, April 30, and Saturday, May 1 for agencies that have been audited. These will be scheduled through your Accreditation Specialist.
